to break her heart, if we are to be parted; and his voice trembled slightly—"we shall both, I hope, keep up a cheerful spirit under the trial, for the performance of our duty here will give us the happiness of knowing that we shall meet at last where no one can part us." He stopped suddenly, for a low sob struck on his ear, and seizing Mary's hand in both of his he said in a low and earnest voice, "Hush, hush, my own darling, this is the only thing I cannot bear."

There was a long pause, only disturbed by the ticking of the watch. At length Pringle rose, and laid his hand upon theirs. They started, and Mary grasped Frank's more firmly.

SCRAPS FROM THE TEACHINGS OF THE SPIRITS OF THE DEPARTED.

Be still and worship the Lord for He is with his children who seek the face of the Holy one in spirit and in truth, without wavering, and never seek other than the true source from which all good comes.—Let the hearts of all look with perfect confidence, and then a bright and glorious light will burst forth and lead the soul into all truth. But to those who seek other than the right way, a dark and dismal cloud will overshadow all things and they will dwell in a dark land where there will be neither bread nor water for the soul to feed upon."

NATHAN C. HOAG.

Upon the spirit being asked if he remembered a conversation had with a querist while on earth, relative to the truth of modern spiritualism," the following response was given:

"I recollect that I could not think it was from a true source.

"I know now that unto those who seek with true hearts, the spirits of the just made perfect will lead them unto the holy fountain of truth and they will see God in His Glory."

N. C. H.

"Lord, wilt thou lead thy children into a true knowledge of the light which ever shineth before thy throne, and at last lead them by the hand into the true fold which is the seventh sphere, where the saints dwell in perfect peace and love."

THOMAS ANTHONY.

"The true spiritual doctrine as it is taught by those who are perfectly sincere, is the same as some of the early Friends when on earth taught."

T. A.

From a Spirit of the Fifth Sphere.

"Dear, dear brother, your heart is filled with purity and your soul with love at this time. I respond to your every thought for it emanates from the Divine source. How sweet at the silent hour to hold communion with loved ones gone to the realms of bliss before you—how sweet I say, to have an hour from the busy cares of your earth life and come to the bosom of your God. How many call these communications evil! but how are they evil? Point out the harm it will do mortals? Much good will result to others as it has to you, my dear brother."

Prayer by a Spirit of the Upper Spheres.

The storm properly commenced in New York on Saturday, though its greatest severity was not reached till the day following. It is regarded by the authority before us, as without a parallel in the last thirty years. Made unusually amiable by the visitation, a writer thus records his estimate of it:

"Alltogether it was desperate, villainous, snowy, blowy, icy, suicidal, nasty, windy, shivery, freezing, disgusting, disgraceful, melancholy, absurd, vile, ridiculous, disagreeable, unmilitated lumber of a day."

Down town the merchants had change as usual; nothing could suspend the worship of Mammon, but the retail trade was done up. The Opera congealed—not to be thawed out till Wednesday—everybody that had a home and a fire clung to it. There was no arrivals, no cars, no mails, no stages, no news, no nothing."

There, Newports, what think of home now? True, we have had some pretty cold weather within a few days, but nothing that will bear such a "setting out" as the above. A little snow has also fallen, disturbed somewhat in its descent, by a breeze rather unusually stirring. On this account, our roads, it must be allowed, are not quite as easy of passage as they sometimes are; but we have nothing in this line to compare with New York. That New York must be a miserable place to live in, after all. Just see how they are bothered to get about. All hived up there on Monday, like so many bees. Single-sleighs and double-sleighs, omnibuses, stage-coaches, and even steam-engine—all were alike useless. Even the dogs, we are told, kept their kennels from fear, and the model swine usually so very abundant in the Empire City, forgot their dignity and ran squealing through the streets, as if—the butchers were at their heels.

As in the city, so out of it, locomotion nearly came to an end. Ferry-boats either got stuck in the ice or were disabled by endeavoring to encounter it. The New Jersey railroad,—the Camden and Amboy Railroad—the New York and Erie Rail Road—these all had engines, to be sure, but at last accounts they were made fast in a few small patches of snow.

Now our engines never get worsened after that fashion; we have engines that are engines, or none at all. The same of our Railroads. They serve us quite as well at one season as another. True, our stages are sometimes a little retarded by stress of weather, but if our case gets very urgent from a desire to tell or hear some new thing, we have the men among us who make nothing of taking the mails upon their backs and seeing them over the road by daylight. So we announce ourself very well contented, and propose three cheers for Newport.

AN AFFECTING SCENE.—The late George Dunn, a gaoler of Kilmarnock, a blunt, kind-hearted Northumbrian, being requested to mention the incident connected with capital punishments which had most affected him during his long experience, selected one so simple and so touching as proves him to have been possessed, not only of very tender feelings, but of a most correct and delicate judgment. At the last interview between a condemned criminal and his wife, their child—a bonny wee thing just begining to prattle—was playing about the cell. Her eye was caught by the glister of the bolts which confined the father's legs; and she cried out, in blissful ignorance of their use, "O, daddy, daddy, what pretty things! You never wore those at home." "Many a sad thing I have seen," said the honest gaoler, "and many a bitter cry have I heard within these walls, but never one that made me blubber like a child till then. The mother, sir, and the poor fellow himself!—O! sir, it was terrible, terrible!"—Tat's Magazine.

BROWNE'S VENTILATOR.
PATENTED, Sept. 16, 1856.

SIR.—Herewith you are presented with a list of sizes with the price of each annexed, of BROWNE'S PATENT VENTILATOR for all purposes where ventilation and a strong draft are required; and are particularly designed for RAIL ROAD CARS, PUBLIC BUILDINGS, SMOKE CHIMNEYS, and CABINETS AND CABINS.

The advantage proposed by this ventilator over all others is, it gives a uniform draft to a chimney, and at the same time excludes water thus doing away with two great evils—a back draft and drippings down the chimney. The arrangement of the ventilator is very simple; it can be easily adjusted to any use for which it may be required, and it is not liable to get out of order.

N. B.—Drafts on England, Ireland and Scotland, and all the principal cities and towns in Europe. Also Tickets on the New York and Erie Railroad to all the principal cities and towns in the far West.

All persons disposed to purchase will examine for themselves—and are requested to make early application to ALFRED SMITH.

Newport, R. I., Dec. 2, 1856.—

F Please Read.—If you wish to buy a very good building lot and build a very good house, for a very little money, and believe it is the best medicine for your purpose, you will find it in the book of AMOS LEE, Esq., Worcester, Mass., written "I have had a leading Indisposition, which confined me in doors and makes me too weak to take many medicines without relief; finally tried your Pectoral by the advice of our clergymen. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one-half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best. We can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your name deserves the poor man's friend."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.—SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 7, 1856.

BROTHER AREA:—I will cheerfully certify your Pectoral is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people.

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.—WEST MANCHESTER, Jan. 18, 1856.

SIR:—Your CHERRY PECTORAL has given me much relief, and I believe it is the best medicine for this purpose ever put out. With the cold I should sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

Atmosphere, Consumption.—WORCESTER, Mass., Feb. 7, 1856.

SIR:—Your CHERRY PECTORAL has given me much relief, and I believe it is the best medicine for this purpose ever put out. With the cold I should sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

CONSUMPTION.—Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cures so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some human aid can be had; but even to those the CHERRY PECTORAL afford relief and comfort.

Consumption, not to despair till you have tried AMOS LEE'S CHERRY PECTORAL.—It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its virtues all around unequalled in the high merits of its virtues.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Yer's Cathartic Pills.—NEW YORK, March 6, 1856.

DR. ANDREW LOWELL:—I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your CHERRY PECTORAL has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which no old could procure her much relief. She was steadily failing, until Dr. Strong of this city, where we have come for advice, recommended a trial of your medicine. We blew his kindest words, as we do you, Sir, for he has referred us from that day, to your CHERRY PECTORAL, and since used to her couch, and calls herself well.

Youths with gratitude and regard,
